ABSTRACT

All unnumbered headings use the “Heading” style other wise use the styles “Heading 1”, 2, 3, etc. If the title needs to be broken into multiple lines use styles “Title Begin” and “Title End” rather than “Title”. Depending on the printer, the 1.5 inches to the baseline of the title may need to be adjusted just a little. Delete the author section above that does not apply. Be careful not to modify any of the styles in this paper. Also, the 200 word, one paragraph abstract limit will be enforced this year. If you have any questions regarding the template and manuscript preparation, please contact the 2000 proceedings editors.

1 FIRST HEADING

The first paragraph of a heading is not indented and uses the “Normal” style.

The remaining paragraphs are indented using “Normal Indent” style.

2 SECOND HEADING

Second heading information.

2.1 Sub Heading

Programming code use “Program Start, Program, and Program End” Styles using the following guidelines.

class Exponential{
...// Properties of the Exponential

One line programs should use the “Program Both” style.

Exponential interArrival;

2.1.1 Sub-Sub Heading

2.1.2 Another Sub-Sub Heading

ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

APPENDIX A: FIRST APPENDIX

Use the “Appendices” style for multiple appendices otherwise use the “Appendix” style file

APPENDIX B: SECOND APPENDIX

REFERENCES

AUTHOR BIOGRAPHIES

USE “BIOGRAPHY” style when putting in the author biographies. Use Courier New font when specifying the author’s email and web address. See the following two examples.
